What happens if a Rep does not hit their monthly goal?

Refocus

If an Account Rep does not meet their monthly production requirement, the following month will be a Refocus period. This is a one month grace period to give the Rep another chance to hit their production requirement for that month. If the Rep fails to do so they will drop to the position they have earned through their last month's production. In order to be promoted, it will take two consecutive months of production to earn the next promotion.
